ESG Governance

We believe that the successful implementation of all policies and frameworks is because of our robust governance structures. The foundational structure not only reinforces our unwavering commitment to transparency, accountability and strategic decision-making but also oversees the Bank's overarching strategy come to life for effective and principled operations.

We aim to ensure transparency and accountability as per our pillars of governance. To do this, we use various reporting frameworks and standards to disclose our ESG performance as mentioned in 'About this integrated report' section of the integrated report. These standards ensure comprehensive, industry-specific, and globally recognized reporting that aligns with investor expectations, regulatory requirements, and the diverse interests of stakeholders.

In 2022, Co-operative Bank solidified its ESG governance structure, ensuring strategic alignment with sustainability goals. The oversight of ESG including climate-related risks and opportunities is directly embedded in the responsibilities of the Board of Directors and the Board Risk Committee.

Our Board Charter guides the Board in ensuring long-term sustainability by mandating the integration of Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) considerations and climate-related risk management into our strategies, business objectives, and risk management framework.

The Board Risk Committee reviews and approves policies and programs that support ESG and Climate change matters, including our newly developed Environmental, Social, and Governance Policy Framework. This committee is responsible for overseeing the integration of ESG into our Risk Management Framework, thereby ensuring we stay abreast of material risk exposures, including those arising from climate change.

The Bank's management is essential in implementing the ESG and Climate Change strategy. The Board of Management, as outlined in its terms of reference, approves the Bank's ESG strategy and commitments, and oversees their implementation as per the roadmap approved by the Board Risk Committee.

To execute these strategies efficiently, the Bank has established the ESG Champions Committee and a dedicated ESG Unit, with the former playing a significant role in proposing ESG strategies, identifying and mitigating ESG-related risks, and formulating the Bank's ongoing climate change plans.

The ESG Committee meets at least once a month, exemplifying the active and ongoing governance process at the heart of our ESG program.

Risk Management Department is also pivotal in our ESG strategy, providing the Board Risk Committee with updates on significant policy initiatives and developments concerning climate-related risk issues and ensuring transparency of our ESG policies and activities.

We have also identified ESG Champions across all functional units within the Bank. In 2023, Co-operative Bank took a significant step forward in sustainable development by revamping its Environmental and Social Management System (ESMS). This initiative, in collaboration with the International Finance Corporation (IFC) and Deutsche Investitions- und Entwicklungsgesellschaft (DEG), realigned the bank's ESMS with international standards.

This enhancement was aimed at strengthening the bank's capacity for environmental and social risk assessment in relevant transactions, marking a pivotal advancement in its sustainability agenda.

Innovations in Environmental and Social Risk Management:

The bolstering of the ESMS with these tools demonstrates the bank's proactive approach to integrating comprehensive risk management practices into its operational framework.

Capacity Building and Operational Integration:

Underpinning these technical enhancements is a strong emphasis on capacity building. The bank has invested in internationally recognized certifications for its teams, ensuring the effective application and management of the upgraded ESMS.

Furthermore, the bank has seamlessly integrated ESMS-ready data capture fields into its new core banking system. This integration significantly enhances the bank's environmental and social risk classification capabilities, showcasing a deepened commitment to embedding sustainability into every facet of its lending processes.

A Renewed Promise of Environmental Stewardship and Social Responsibility:

The refreshed ESMS framework stands as a testament to Co-operative Bank's dedication to environmental stewardship and social responsibility.

It underscores the bank's promise of transparency and its commitment to continuous improvement in its Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) initiatives.

This renewed framework not only reflects the bank's alignment with global sustainability standards but also reaffirms its leadership role in fostering a sustainable future.

Our Sustainable Finance Framework

Co-operative Bank has crafted a Sustainable Finance Framework that outlines the methodologies for identifying and tracking green and social projects. This initiative is pivotal in aligning the bank's operations with global sustainability goals.

Eligible Projects and Exclusion Criteria:

The framework categorizes eligible projects into areas such as renewable energy, clean transportation, and sustainable water management. It also establishes a rigorous exclusion list to ensure that financed activities promote environmental sustainability and do not contribute to degradation or pollution.

Assessment and Impact:

Projects undergo rigorous scrutiny under the bank's ESG policy to ensure they meet the framework's eligibility criteria. In 2023, the bank assessed that KES 37.4 billion, or 5.6% of its portfolio, qualifies as sustainable, emphasizing the bank's role in financing projects with positive environmental and social impacts.

Future Directions and Technological Integration:

The bank is actively working to increase its green lending, which constituted 33% of the identified sustainable portfolio. Utilizing its new core-banking system, Co-operative Bank aims to better identify and track sustainable transactions, underlining its commitment to scaling up support for projects that contribute to a sustainable future.

Climate Risk Management

Understanding Climate Change Risks and Strategic Response

The Co-operative Bank acknowledges the significant risks posed by climate change, including recurrent droughts and floods, impacting various sectors such as energy, transportation, construction, agriculture, and manufacturing. Reflecting this understanding, the Bank has embarked on a strategic path, evident in its inaugural TCFD report to the Central Bank of Kenya (CBK). This report showcases the Bank's commitment by providing insights into its current status, ongoing progress, and future-oriented plans regarding climate-related risk management. Guided by the "Guidance on Climate-Related Risk Management (CBK, Oct. 2021)," the Bank is diligently implementing its comprehensive roadmap to manage these risks effectively.

Governance, Strategy, and Operational Resilience:

At the heart of the Bank's approach is a robust governance structure, featuring board oversight and active management engagement, designed to tackle climate-related risks and opportunities decisively. Noteworthy milestones include the formalization of a climate risk management roadmap, establishment of an ESG Committee, and the nomination of Climate Champions. Strategically, the Bank integrates climate considerations into its business model to enhance resilience and sustainability. This includes conducting materiality assessments to pinpoint significant climate risks and opportunities, leading to the formulation of a Climate-related Risk Management and Integration Framework.

In pursuit of operational excellence, the Bank plans to onboard a climate risk consultant to aid in baselining emissions and framing a targeted mitigation and adaptation strategy.

Metrics, Targets, and Strategic Partnerships for Climate Action:

A forward-looking aspect of the Bank's strategy involves developing precise metrics and targets encompassing greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, energy efficiency, water usage, paper consumption, digitalization efforts, and the promotion of sustainable finance. The engagement with a climate risk consultant aims to refine the Bank's GHG Inventory, facilitating systematic data collection, emissions calculation, and the setting of ambitious yet attainable emissions reduction goals. Furthermore, the Bank is dedicated to forging strategic partnerships that promote sustainable business practices, encourage policy advocacy, facilitate access to green financing, and refine green project credit assessment processes.

Future-Oriented Climate Initiatives and Stakeholder Collaboration:

Emphasizing a future-oriented perspective, the Bank is not just focused on risk management but also keenly aware of the opportunities arising from the global shift towards a climate-resilient economy. Acknowledging the journey ahead, the Bank commits to ongoing collaboration with stakeholders, including customers, investors, employees, and the broader society. This collective effort is aimed at supporting and participating in the crucial move towards a low carbon future.

Co-op Bank's Strategic Investment in Farmers' Future

At Co-operative Bank, we are transforming the agricultural landscape through innovative product offerings and personalized services, rooted in our commitment to financial inclusion and customer centricity. Our establishment of the KES. 100 Million Co-op Bank Farmers' Co-operative Societies Capacity Building & Technical Assistance Fund is a testament to this, aiming to empower farmers across Kenya with the tools for sustainable growth and enhanced productivity

The Co-op Bank established the Co-op Bank Farmers' Co-operative Societies Capacity Building & Technical Assistance Fund, a Kshs. 100 Million initiative aimed at capacity building, technical support, and digitization for farmer cooperatives. This transformative fund has embarked on capacity building for 30 cooperatives across seven agricultural sectors: Coffee, Cotton, Potatoes, Rice, Poultry, maize and dairy poised to impact over 3,000,000 individual farmers.

The Co-op Bank's Capacity Building Fund is crafted to bolster the sustainability, efficiency, and digital prowess of farmer cooperatives, fostering a 50% turnover increase and promoting environmental resilience. Managed by the Co-op Foundation and implemented by Co-op Consultancy and Bancassurance Intermediary (CCBI), the initiative underscores technological advancements, strategic planning, and community upliftment, steering towards sustainable agriculture and improved livelihoods.

The project targets ambitious milestones: enhancing incomes for over 3 million smallholders, generating employment, especially for women and youth, and establishing climate-resilient cooperatives through advanced technology and improved operations. This concerted effort is expected to markedly advance community development, environmental stewardship, and poverty alleviation.

Under this initiative, significant strides have been made in various sectors, reflecting the fund's broad impact:

- Rice cooperatives have seen improved management-board relationships, bolstered record-keeping, and enhanced information security.
- Cotton sectors have recognized the value of strategic partnerships and digitization, leading to better financial planning and produce pricing.
- Poultry sector has benefited from improved governance and farming practices, establishing new strategic partnerships.
- Coffee cooperatives have witnessed a surge in member confidence and information security measures.
- Across the board, cooperatives have experienced enhanced stakeholder relations, strategic clarity, and governance, contributing to a unified approach towards sustainable agricultural practices and increased animal productivity.

The integration of the Co-op Bank Soko platform has been a game-changer, creating a marketplace that connects farmers, input providers, and buyers, revolutionizing access to finance, and significantly impacting Kenya's agricultural landscape. So far 1.1 million farmers have been registered on the Co-op Bank Soko platform.

Through these strategic interventions, Co-op Bank is addressing the enduring challenges faced by Kenyan farmers, promising a sustainable shift in small-holder agriculture. This initiative represents a critical step in surmounting the obstacles to agricultural productivity and sustainability.

Digitization for Impact with Coffee DSS

We have successfully developed a cutting-edge digital platform, the Direct Trading System (DSS), that revolutionizes the coffee industry by enabling coffee unions and farmers to trade their commodities directly, eliminating intermediaries. This transformative solution has already yielded remarkable results, with the Kipkelion coffee union utilizing the system to directly export coffee valued at KShs. 120 million to South Korea.

In an ambitious move to support Kenya's coffee farmers and cooperatives, Co-operative Bank developed the Coffee Direct Settlement System (DSS). This innovative platform, grounded in the crops (coffee) (general) regulations of 2019 and the capital markets (coffee exchange) regulations of 2020, streamlines the management, clearing, and settlement of coffee sales from the Nairobi Coffee Exchange.

Empowering Farmers and Enhancing Transparency

The DSS empowers coffee farmers and their cooperatives by enabling direct trade and reducing reliance on intermediaries, thereby enhancing transparency within the coffee value chain. A key feature of the system is the option for payouts in USD, allowing farmers to maximize their earnings by exchanging currency at competitive rates of their choosing. This significant step not only reduces their dependence on marketers and brokers but also marks a leap towards sustainable agricultural practices and financial empowerment.

A Year of Impact

In 2023 alone, the DSS facilitated 1,870 transactions, settling USD 24 million through the system. A standout success story is the Kipkelion coffee union, which exported coffee worth Kes 105 million to South Korea using the DSS. This case exemplifies the transformative potential of direct trade, not just for enhancing farmer profitability but also as a model for other agricultural sectors.

Driving Economic Development and Sustainability

By eliminating intermediaries, the DSS ensures farmers receive a fair share of the profits, contributing to improved livelihoods and economic empowerment. This initiative aligns with Co-operative Bank's broader goals of financial inclusion and agricultural sustainability, aiming to empower farmers with direct control over their sales and finances.

Kevin Kariuki’s remarkable journey, a testament to the transformative power of support and financial inclusion, finds its pinnacle in the achievement of home ownership. Emerging from an economically disadvantaged background, Kevin’s determination and positive outlook on life were evident even during his high school days. Co-operative Bank played a crucial role by providing support for pocket money and essentials, enabling Kevin to concentrate on his studies.

Despite facing formidable challenges, Kevin excelled academically, achieving a B- Minus in the Kenya Certificate of Secondary Examinations (KCSE). Fueled by a deep passion for the disciplined forces, he successfully joined the armed services and later the Kenya Prisons, graduating from training in 2021 and receiving a posting to Maralal.

Throughout his journey, Kevin maintained a valuable connection with Co-operative Bank, seeking advice on investment opportunities and additional financial assistance. His primary goal was to secure a home for his mother, transitioning her from a one-roomed slum rental house – where she had raised him and his sister – to home ownership in a better environment.

Recognizing the urgency of Kevin’s dream, Co-operative Bank provided invaluable financial guidance, emphasizing the time value of money. Advising Kevin to consider a Co-operative Bank loan rather than waiting to accumulate enough shares for a SACCO loan, the bank efficiently processed a loan of 930k over 60 months. This enabled Kevin to purchase a half-acre plot in Endarasha at a favourable price.

The efficiency of the loan process allowed Kevin to fast-track the land purchase and immediately commence the construction of a two-bedroom house for his mother. The family’s life took a positive turn, with Kevin’s mother thriving in farming, and the entire family experiencing improved life quality standards.

In expressing his gratitude to Co-operative Bank, Kevin acknowledged the pivotal role it played in his success. The achievement of moving his mother from a slum rental to owning a home marked the fulfilment of his greatest dream. Kevin’s family continues to make significant strides, and whenever his mother is in town, she attributes their life-changing journey to the unwavering support provided by Co-operative Bank.

This heartwarming story reflects the profound impact of strategic financial guidance and timely support, illustrating how Kevin’s success story became a catalyst for positive change within his family, culminating in the realization of home ownership.

Climate Action

Governance

We have ensured that climate considerations are part of our Board Charter, the Board Risk Committee's responsibilities, and the Board of Management's terms of reference. The Board of Directors, through the Board Risk Committee, are responsible for overseeing climate-related risks and opportunities, integrating ESG considerations into the bank's strategies, objectives, and risk management framework, and approving policies and programs that support ESG and climate change matters. The board members undergo regular training and updates on climate-related issues to enhance their expertise and decision-making.

The Board of Management, led by the Chief Risk Officer (CRO), is entrusted with approving and implementing the ESG and Climate Change strategy, supervised by the Board Risk Committee. The CRO oversees risk management plans and policies, ensuring the integration of climate-related risks in the risk management framework, and reports to the Board Risk Committee on significant climate-related risk issues and initiatives.

The bank has established the ESG Champions Committee and a dedicated ESG Unit under the Finance and Strategy Division to drive its ESG and Climate Change strategies efficiently. The ESG Champions Committee is responsible for proposing ESG strategies, identifying and mitigating ESG-related risks, and formulating the bank's ongoing climate change plans. The ESG Unit coordinates the implementation of the ESG Policy Framework that incorporates Climate-related Risk Management and Integration. The bank also has ESG Champions across all functional and divisional units to ensure appropriate assessment, transparency, and comparability in setting ESG-related engagements across its activities.

Strategy

The Bank Conducted a materiality assessment to identify key climate-related risks impacting the business, such as physical risks (droughts, floods, extreme temperatures) and transition risks (regulatory changes, industry shifts, market conditions, consumer/stakeholder preferences). These risks may present both direct and indirect impacts on our operations, credit risk profile, customer base, and overall financial performance

The physical risks are likely to lead to decreased agricultural yields impacting loan repayment rates. Additionally, the Bank faces elevated funding costs due to reduced deposit volumes, due to a disruption in economic activities. The Bank sees this as an opportunity to support its customers to adopt climate-smart agricultural practices, risk-sharing mechanisms, and insurance solutions to mitigate the impact of extreme weather events.

In the medium to long term, the Bank expects more laws and regulations on energy and the environment, which could create new demand for capital and funding from its customers who need to comply with the requirements. The Bank also sees an opportunity to develop products and services that support the transition to clean energy and reduce the carbon and environmental footprint of its customers.

In addition to new financing products, there are opportunities in improving our operational efficiency. Implementing energy-efficient measures within our branches and offices will continue to significantly reduce our carbon footprint and operational costs. These initiatives include installing energy-efficient lighting and transitioning to renewable energy sources for our power needs

Our materiality assessment findings have shaped our strategic response to these factors. For example, with the identification of legislative changes as a material risk, our strategy now includes regular reviews of relevant legislation, early adoption of new requirements such as the new IFRS S1/S2 standards and active participation in industry dialogues on policy changes which saw the Bank actively involved in the Kenya's TCFD reporting template development in liaison with KBA.

Our strategic response to climate action included developing a Climate-related Risk Management and Integration Framework for risk evaluation, mitigation strategy development, and ongoing monitoring.

To align our strategic planning with global best practice, the Bank adopted the Network for Greening the Financial System (NGFS) climate scenarios for strategic planning and resilience testing

The Bank's climate strategy is not static; it is subject to ongoing evaluation and enhancement based on emerging climate science, regulatory developments, and best practices.

- Going forward to ensure that the Bank is well-prepared to meet the challenges of a changing climate, we will continue to refine our strategies to ensure alignment with global practices and our local context.
- We further aim to develop our scenario analysis capability to enable us better understand and plan for future climate-related risks and opportunities.
- Additionally, to enhance our understanding of climate-related issues, across the entire Bank, we will continue to invest in continuous learning and developing.

The Lusoi Reforestation & Rehabilitation Project

Project Overview:

The Lusoi Reforestation and Rehabilitation Project stands as a beacon of environmental restoration, covering 600 acres with over 350,000 trees planted. This significant effort marks a collaborative commitment to reforesting landscapes, enhancing biodiversity, and promoting ecological sustainability.

Collaborative Efforts:

This initiative is a triumvirate partnership between the Cooperative Bank, the Kenya Forest Service (KFS), and the local community. The Cooperative Bank's contribution of over Sh30 million underscores the project's foundational support, enabling the construction of infrastructure crucial for forest management and the establishment of a nursery critical for the project's sustained success.

Infrastructure and Community Involvement:

The bank's financial support has facilitated the construction of office blocks and residences for forest guards, improving forest management capabilities. A nursery established by the bank ensures a continuous supply of saplings, with local community members playing a vital role in the daily care of both the saplings and the newly planted tree.

Guardianship and Sustainable Growth:

The partnership with KFS, cemented by a five-year MOU, introduces a dedicated team of forest guards ensuring the project's long-term stewardship. Plans to establish a borehole aim to provide an independent water source for the nursery, further securing the project's growth.

Mitigating Wildlife Conflicts:

Innovative measures, including the construction of water troughs for elephants, address the potential for conflict between wildlife and reforestation efforts. This foresight allows for wildlife to access water safely without impacting the nursery or competing resources.

Our collaboration with KFS and the community ensures that every aspect of the project, from tree planting to wildlife care, is handled with dedication and foresight.

Looking Forward:

With every tree planted, the Lusoi Reforestation and Rehabilitation Project not only restores the environment but also builds a model for future reforestation efforts. The collective vision of all partners involved paves the way for a sustainable and biodiverse future.

Sustainable Finance

Co-operative Bank has established a sustainable finance framework to guide the identification and support of green and social projects, encompassing a range of environmental initiatives and incorporating a detailed exclusion list. In 2023, KES 37.4 billion, or 5.6% of its portfolio above USD 1M was classified as sustainable, with efforts underway to increase green lending, which constitutes 33% of this sustainable segment. The bank is also enhancing its capacity to track sustainable transactions through its new core-banking system.

Introduction to Sustainable Finance Framework (SFF):

The Co-operative Bank's SFF defines the bank's approach to classifying financing as sustainable, focusing on monitoring, tracking, and performance disclosure. It emphasizes the development of green and social products, spanning specific, dedicated, or general-purpose financing.

Definition of Sustainable Finance Categories:

Social Finance: Utilizes private capital for social/environmental challenges, aiming for public benefits and measurable impacts.

Guiding Principles of the SFF:

Balancing financial returns with economic viability and growth through innovation and prioritizing inclusivity, risk management, resource optimization, and adherence to ethical standards, in line with Kenya Bankers Association (KBA) Sustainable Finance principles.

Environmental and Social Management System (ESMS):

- Specifies activities/sectors excluded from sustainable financing due to negative impacts.
- Includes environmental and social due diligence procedures to ensure responsible financing.

2023 Achievements and Due Diligence:

Over 33 applications processed through the Environmental and Social Due Diligence (ESDD) process. Systematic E&S risk identification, assessment, and mitigation actions developed in collaboration with customers.

Integration into Credit Processes:

Environmental and Social risk assessments are integral to decision-making and contractual agreements.

- Standard Environmental and Social clauses are included in customer letters of offer.
- A monitoring register is maintained to track the management of identified risks.

Future Commitments and Technological Integration:

Aiming to deepen sustainable finance initiatives and sustainably tag the existing portfolio. Reviewing and classifying current financial activities to align with sustainability objectives. Integrating SFF data tags into the new core banking system for efficient tracking of sustainable transactions.

Framework's Role and Commitment:

The SFF represents Co-operative Bank's dedication to sustainable development and ensures financing activities positively impact environmental conservation, social inclusion, and economic growth.

Building Futures, Breaking Barriers

With its expansion from an initial cohort of 30 students per region to currently 60, and including an extra 5 students from each county, the program now proudly supports 655 students annually.

The Co-operative Bank Foundation's Secondary School Scholarship Program stands as a testament to the organization's dedication to educational equity and empowerment throughout Kenya. This represents a significant and wide-reaching effort to enhance educational opportunities for diverse communities.

Educational Equity and Enrollment

In Kenya, secondary school enrollment has faced critical challenges, as evidenced by the 70.3% general enrollment and 53.2% net enrollment rates back in 2018. Systemic issues such as prohibitive costs—encompassing school fees, uniforms—and socio-economic barriers like poverty, cultural norms, and insufficient school infrastructures have greatly impacted education accessibility and completion. The Foundation's scholarship initiative targets these obstacles, effectively contributing to an increased number of secondary school scholars and, in turn, bolstering the enrollment figures across the nation. By 2023, the foundation's reach has extended to 402 schools across all 47 counties, thus supporting a wide spectrum of students in various school categories including national, extra-county, county, and sub-county establishments.

Attainment, Completion, and Academic Excellence

The scholarship program boasts a remarkable 96% completion rate as of 2023. Through financial support, the program has been instrumental in enabling students to fulfill their academic journey without the hindrance of economic hardship. The academic achievements of scholarship recipients are noteworthy, particularly in the Kenya Certificate of Secondary Education (KCSE) examinations. Here, 91% of students have progressed to pursue university degrees, with another 8% entering technical and vocational institutes, and 1% embarking on craft and artisan certificate courses.

Overcoming Cultural Barriers

The initiative's penetration into Arid and Semi-Arid Lands (ASAL) and marginalized communities has been pivotal in providing educational access to underserved demographics, especially girls. It has sparked a cultural evolution, shifting perceptions towards the value of education for all genders. Stories of success from these areas have been instrumental in reshaping attitudes and underpinning the importance of schooling for girls.

Advancing Gender Equality

In alignment with the Sustainable Development Goal 5 and Kenya's Vision 2030, gender equality is a core focus of the scholarship program. Ensuring that at least one-third of the beneficiaries at the regional level are girls, with a goal of balanced gender distribution for county scholarships, the initiative proactively advocates for equal prospects for both males and females. This strategy is vital in addressing the prevalent gender disparities within educational realms and society at large. The 2023 enrollment statistics of 249 girls and 406 boys showcase the Foundation's staunch commitment to gender inclusivity, with special consideration for the support of orphans and physically challenged students.

The Secondary School Scholarship Program by The Co-operative Bank Foundation encapsulates a holistic method of mitigating educational inequality in Kenya. By challenging traditional norms and championing gender equality, the foundation is not only elevating academic standards but is also contributing to the creation of a more equitable and learned society.

Mentorship Fuelling Aspirations

The mentorship provided by the Bank, especially the connection with the Limuru

Branch Manager, stoked Samuel's quest for excellence. His academic journey culminated in the achievement of a B+ mean grade in his KCSE, instilling immense pride within his family.

Crossroads and New Beginnings

Post-high school, Samuel joined the workforce of a local milk company, earning a modest KShs. 9,000 a month, while supporting his family and pondering his future steps. However, his narrative took another hopeful turn as news of yet another Co-operative Bank scholarship arrived. The opportunity for university education beckoned.

Journey of Enrichment and Growth

As part of a comprehensive scholarship program, Samuel, alongside 27 other scholars, delved into a journey of training and mentorship, fostering his interest in matters of corporate affairs. His memorable stewardship under the guidance of Alfred Mwaura at Kiambu branch further ignited his passion and purpose.

Securing a place at Kenyatta University for a BA in Actuarial Science, Samuel's academic prowess continued to soar. In December 2023, he graduated with first-class honours - a victory shared with lecturers and peers alike, and distinguished by a group project that merged actuarial expertise with climate change solutions—a project influenced by the Bank's ESG capacity-building initiatives.

Enduring Support and Lasting Connections

Samuel reminisces about the bond he formed with the four peers from his scholarship cohort who attended the same university. Reflecting on the adversity they overcame together, including a robbery that showcased the Foundation's unwavering support, it becomes clear that the scholarship offered more than just financial aid; it provided a safety net of camaraderie and encouragement.

Concluding Reflections on a Bright Future

Now a graduate, Samuel's aspirations stretch towards innovative startups and societal impact investments, with a potential pursuit of a Ph.D. His story becomes a beacon of inspiration, not only for his brothers but for all who dream passionately. Samuel's tales celebrate the transformative influence of belief, support, and the indomitable human spirit.

In every challenge faced, every hurdle crossed, Samuel reaffirms the incredible power of faith in one's potential and the impact of nurturing this potential with care and opportunity.

Case Study:

Empowering Kenya's Boda Boda Riders

The World Bank estimates that approximately 800,000 Kenyan youth join the labour market each year and only 50,000 succeed in getting professional jobs. With the current population trends, the overall number of unemployed youth will double between the years 2010 and 2035.

Underscoring the urgency of effective interventions, Co-op Bank Foundation, in collaboration with GIZ under the Employment and Skills for Development in Africa (E4D) program, launched the Jenga Rider initiative. This initiative is part of the broader E4D program, which seeks to improve employment outcomes in six African countries: Ghana, Kenya, Mozambique, South Africa, Tanzania, and Uganda.

A significant focus of the Jenga Rider project is the Boda Boda industry, a cornerstone of Kenya's economy, employing 1.2 million riders and serving 14.4 million people daily. With daily revenues of about Ksh. 600 million, the industry contributed approximately Ksh. 219 billion to the Kenyan economy in 2017, as reported by the Kenya National Bureau of Statistics (KNBS). By targeting this vital sector, Jenga Rider not only aims to improve individual livelihoods but also to bolster a critical component of the national economy.

Jenga Rider aimed to mitigate this issue by enhancing the business acumen of 2,400 youths, thus fostering business growth, increasing savings, and encouraging the adoption of digital solutions for better access to information and compliance with road safety regulations.

In addition to these efforts, recognizing the energy sector's significant contribution to greenhouse gas emissions, which account for about 75% of the global total, the shift towards e-mobility in the boda boda sector is strategic. This sector's reliance on petroleum makes it a prime candidate for transformation through emerging clean energy technologies.

The transition towards e-mobility among Boda Boda riders represents a forward-looking stride in Kenya's commitment to the Paris Agreement, aiming to reduce carbon emissions by 45% by 2030 and achieve net zero by 2050.

To advance this transition, through the Jenga rider program, four regional workshops on e-mobility were hosted. These workshops were designed to raise awareness about e-mobility through experience sharing, showcasing various market technologies, and providing access to accurate information from e-mobility dealers.

Over 500 boda boda leaders from Kisumu, Mombasa, Eldoret, and Nairobi participated, marking a significant step towards integrating e-mobility into Kenya's boda boda sector, thereby aligning with global environmental goals while addressing the pressing issue of youth unemployment.

Co-op South Sudan

Empowering Girls, Shaping Futures: Bridging Education Gaps in South Sudan

South Sudanese girls face a challenge where only a small fraction complete primary education and even fewer progress to secondary education. The Girls' Education South Sudan (GESS) 2 program, seeks to address the challenges faced by the girls in their educational journey.

This initiative, aimed at improving girls' education in South Sudan, is a collaborative effort funded by various international donors including the UK Foreign, Commonwealth & Development Office (FCDO), Global Affairs Canada (GAC), the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), and the European Union (EU).

Built on the successes of GESS 1, GESS 2's main objective is to provide equitable, accessible, and essential support to the education sector in South Sudan, with a special focus on girls. This is done by providing cash transfers, capitation grants, and other support mechanisms to improve girls' enrolment, retention, and completion rates. Through this, the program aims to achieve significant improvements in the Gender Parity Index (GPI) from 2020 to 2024, reflecting a closer balance between boys and girls in primary and secondary education levels.

Co-operative South Sudan, a subsidiary of the Co-operative Bank Group, has played a crucial role in the Girls' Education South Sudan Phase

2 (GESS 2) project as the executor of cash transfer payments to school-going girls to alleviate financial barriers to education.

The program emphasizes the need for a qualified payment provider that can execute cash transfers while observing high standards of Know Your Customer (KYC) assurance, maximizing value for money, and maintaining robust mechanisms for the safeguarding of children and beneficiaries.

To ensure this is done the bank reaches out to school-going girls to minimize dropout rates and increase attendance and completion rates, providing a one-off annual payment to targeted beneficiaries in coordination with GESS donors and the Ministry of General Education and Instruction (MoGEI), Ensuring the effectiveness, efficiency, and equity of resource flow to the intended beneficiaries in a timely and effective manner; and reporting on disbursements with evidence and receipts for amounts disbursed.

Co-operative South Sudan's involvement highlights its commitment to contributing to the wider financial inclusion and economic development of the country and its contribution to the educational empowerment of girls in South Sudan. By facilitating cash transfers, the bank is not only alleviating the financial burdens faced by families but also ensuring that girls can enrol in and attend school.
